

Student Name: Shannon Davis Speech: Informative Speech

General Purpose: To educate
Specific Purpose: To entertain others while teaching them about their own lives
Central Idea: Take others on a journey through my toe's epic life story

INTRODUCTION

- I. Attention Material
 - A. Disappointment expressed on behalf of classroom not being contaminated with meat
 - B. Revealing of my subject... my toe, and its epic life story
- II. Orienting Material
 - B. Everyone has toes, but do you ever think about them?

(Transition: "Let us start at the proper place of most great stories... the beginning.")

BODY

- I. My toe's early life
 - A. My toe as a baby
 - 1. Toe baby pictures
 - 2. Toe's young adventures burrowing in sand, first painting in ridiculous colors, first licking by a dog, first trimming, first game of "this little piggie", first shoes and socks, etc

(Transition: "Though most toes begin life innocent enough, eventually they must deal with a world full of obstacles and danger...")

- II. Trouble in toe-idise
 - A. A world of dangers
 - 1. Toe fungus and what you should know
 - 3. Toe stepping awareness
 - B. Stubbing one's toe and the Coffee Table
 - 1. Coffee tables... a toe's worst enemy
 - 2. Revealing of a coffee table along with Halloween sound effect
 - 3. Comforting of toe
 - 4. Toe stubbing experiences and ways to avoid them

(Transition: “Even though it can be a dangerous world out there for any toe, there is hope.”)

- III. My toe's future
 - A. Where my toe is going today
 - 1. My toe's bright future and what it's looking forward to

(Transition: "So you see, one little toe can go a long way.")

CONCLUSION

- I. Reinstatement of the warning in the introduction